

Anahit Flanagan Biography

Anahit Flanagan is a professional interpreter and educator with more than four decades of experience. She specializes in judiciary and medical interpreter services.

Anahit has worked extensively in state and federal court settings across a number of jurisdictions, including Massachusetts, New York, Arizona and Washington State. She has worked on high profile and sensitive court cases and is highly specialised in the areas of medical and legal interpretation. Anahit is actively developing two comprehensive trilingual medical and legal glossaries for interpreters. As an educator and coach, Anahit has taught students and professionals of all ages and experience levels in the Armenian and Russian languages. She has extensive experience preparing interpreters to work in immigration and naturalization services. She has developed and implemented Russian language curricula and assessments for students of all ages. Anahit has also provided oral and written translation services and has edited books, workbooks, audio and video material.

Anahit holds a Doctor of Philosophy in Linguistics from Moscow State University of Linguistics, a Master of Arts in Russian from Boston College, and a Bachelor of Education in English as well as a Bachelor of Education in Russian from Brusov Yerevan State University of Languages and Social Sciences in Armenia.